THE RECALL

VOLUME IX

MCMXXI

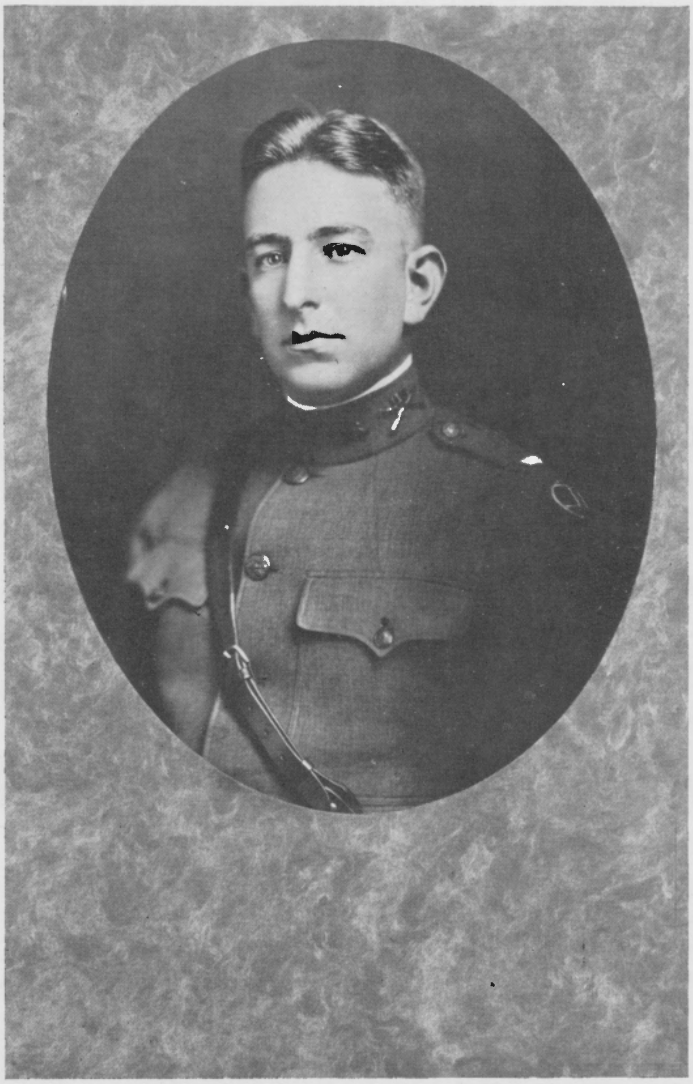

PUBLISHED BY
THE CADETS OF
AUGUSTA MILITARY ACADEMY
FORT DEFIANCE
VIRGINIA

To

Frank Johnson Gilliam

Christian gentleman, World War veteran, diligent scholar, devout servant of God in foreign fields; faithful friend, benefactor and lover of Augusta, this volume of the Recall is affectionately dedicated by the Corps of 1920-21 in token of a grateful and constant remembrance accorded their one-time comrade and teacher.

Foreword

FOR this ninth volume of the RECALL we offer no apologies. We make this rather bold statement, realizing that we have made mistakes. For in preparing this book we have not been blind to our shortcomings. There are parts of this book you will not like—there are parts of it we don't like. In this we agree.

So touch lightly upon the features with dislikeable parts, and dwell upon those that appeal to you most. Only one thing we ask: Remember that our efforts to turn out as near as possible a RECALL that will please everyone have been untiring. Give us two and two for trying.

We fear that you if you have never heard the words "thirty coal" or "fifteen track" followed by your name; if you have never trod the weary path around "ye old Clay Bowl"; if you have never "finned out" for a year and returned with "that high and mighty feeling"; if you have never seen Augusta soar high in victory or even go down in defeat; if you have never attended the dances; and, lastly, if you have never heard the final word, "dismissed," uttered by some sweet feminine voice—then, dear reader, you will miss a great deal that is to be found within this book. Because it is published solely by the cadets of the corps, for the cadets of the corps of to-day, the corps of yesterday, and the corps of to-morrow.

The purpose of this book is just what its name implies—to "Recall" fond memories of the days spent at Augusta.

The Military Department

THE work in the Military Department of this school has kept pace at all times with the high standard set by the Academic Department. Since this school was designated as one of the ten "Honor Schools" for the year 1920-21, we necessarily have been putting forth our best efforts to maintain the high standard already attained. It has meant more hours of work on the drill ground and more thorough work in the classrooms, but can any one conscientiously say that he has not gained considerable benefit from it?

The spirit of the corps during the year has been excellent and each cadet has been lending his utmost assistance to make this school the best in the United States. What has been accomplished has been done through the cheerful and willing coöperation of each member of the corps. To the corps belongs the lion's share of the praise for the work that has been done in the past, as well as for what it will do in the future. The tendency to rest on laurels already won has not been encouraged by any one, and the earnest desire to add to them has been predominant throughout the entire year. Let us not forget that a great deal of credit is due the efficient staff of tactical officers and instructors who have so willingly and untiringly given their time and efforts with no desire for reward other than that of developing a well-balanced, efficient corps.

The work during the year has been more diversified than usual, which has had a tendency to make it more interesting. The work for the year has included such things as gallery practice, range practice, map problems, combat work, and physical training. Considerable interest was shown in gallery practice, and rivalry was aroused by selecting teams from each of the companies who entered into a competition to determine which company had the best team. A competitive match was also held between individual shots to determine their standards, and, needless to say, some excellent marksmen were developed.

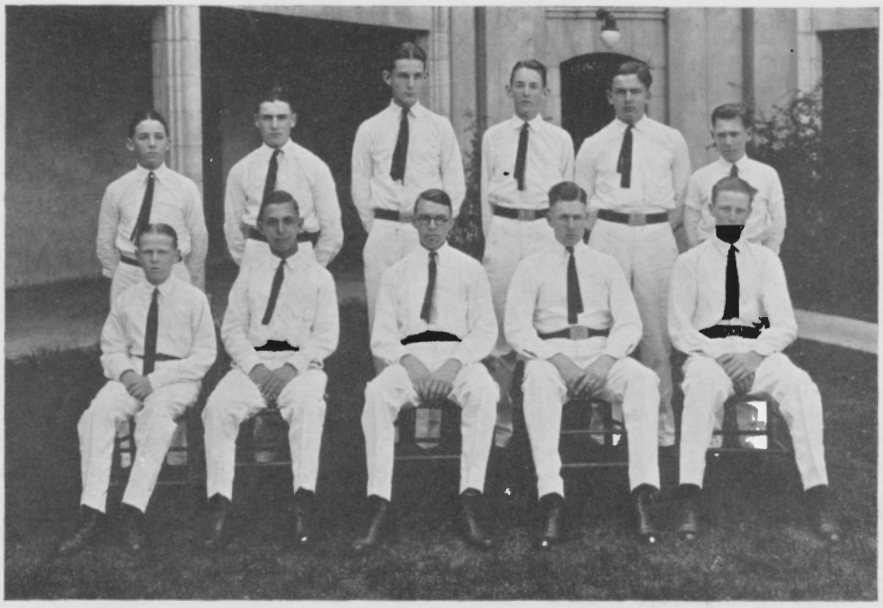

The art of handling men in combat was developed by use of map problems. Each student in the several classes was given a situation, or a problem that might arise in battle condition, which he was required to solve in the presence of the other members of the class. Following the solution, a discussion was held, and the mistakes of the solution pointed out. The result was very gratifying, and the men became much better acquainted with the principles that applied to combat.

It is hardly necesary to repeat what may be gained by military training, but one prominent feature that should not be overlooked is that of leadership. One of the easiest means by which that art can be learned is the actual handling of men on the drill ground and in the performance of field problems. Here a man is confronted with problems which call for quick, correct solutions and the proper application of sound, tactical principles.

Leadership such as this not only prepares a man for the proper performance of his duty in the event of imminent danger, but also trains him as a leader in any business or profession in which he may engage in later years. The ability to think quickly and correctly is one of the great assets any man can possess, and if he has developed that ability in one profession he can very readily apply it to another. That is the sort of man that is being sought to-day in all vocations.

Then if the Military Department contributed toward development of such qualifications as these, it surely has assisted in laying the foundation of an education which will ultimately spell success.

Radio Company

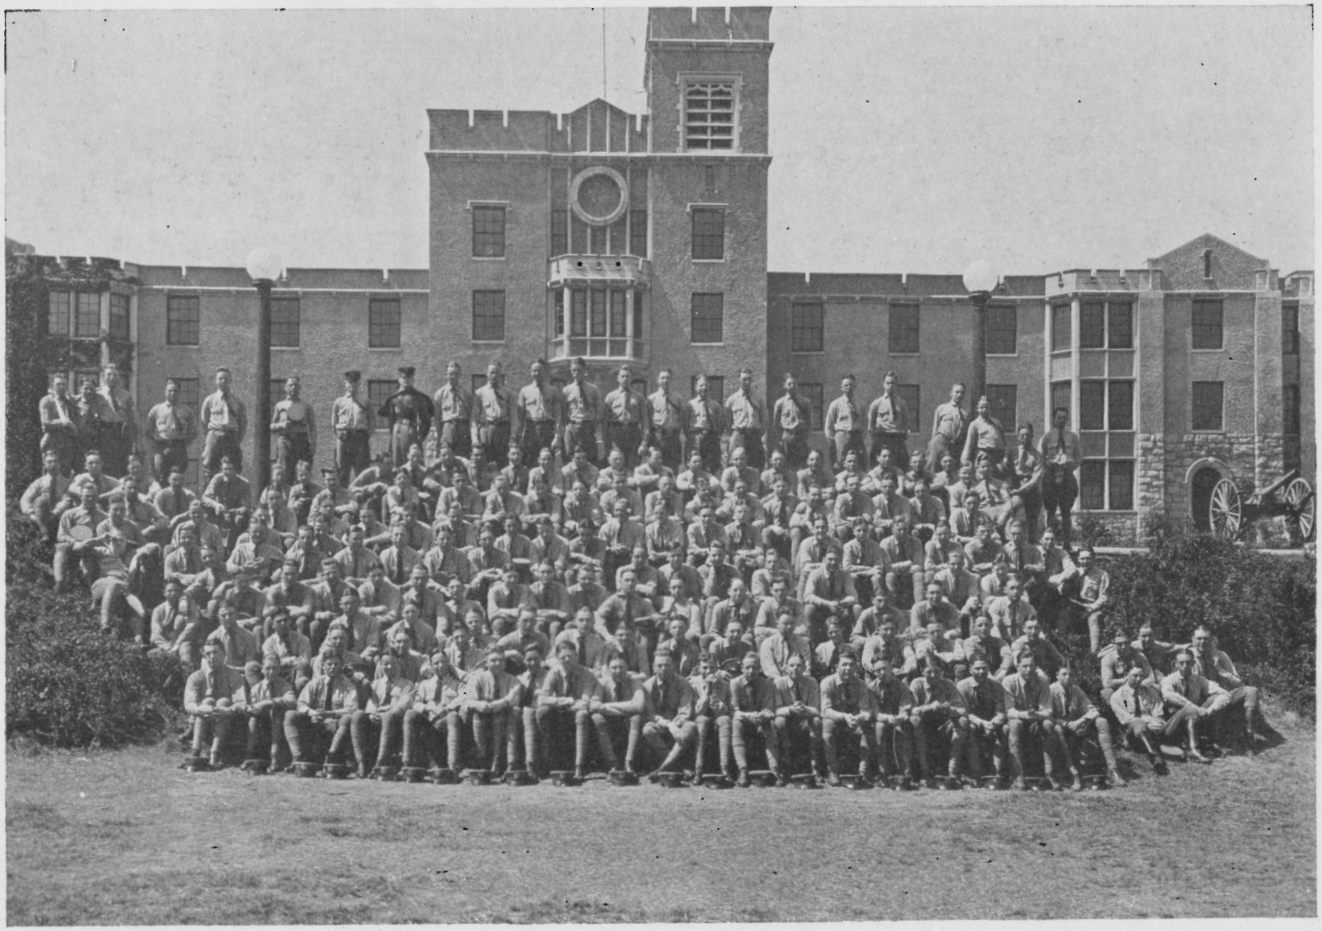

On December 2nd the men were enlisted and the following officers elected: Captain, Boxley, T.: First Sergeant, Leterman; Executive Committee, Smith, H. O., and Page, H.

Under the competent supervision of these officers the work has been pushed forward rapidly and much interest has been shown not only by the members of the Company, but by the entire corps.

This work received the entire sanction of both Colonel and Major. New equipment, valued at four hundred and fifty dollars, has been installed at their expense. This, in addition to the apparatus already in use, makes our station one of the most complete in this part of the State.

The station has a "sending" radius of over four hundred miles and the receiving capacity is practically unlimited. Weather reports have been received daily and standard time sent out by "Arlington Station" is recorded at nine o'clock each night. Many interesting conversations have been carried on with amateur operators throughout the State.

Although some of the fine points still require a little polishing, the station as a whole has made unusual progress during the past year, and wonderful things are to be expected of it in the future.

A. M. A. Spirit

No other phase of school life means as much either to the new cadet or the old man as these two words, "School Spirit."

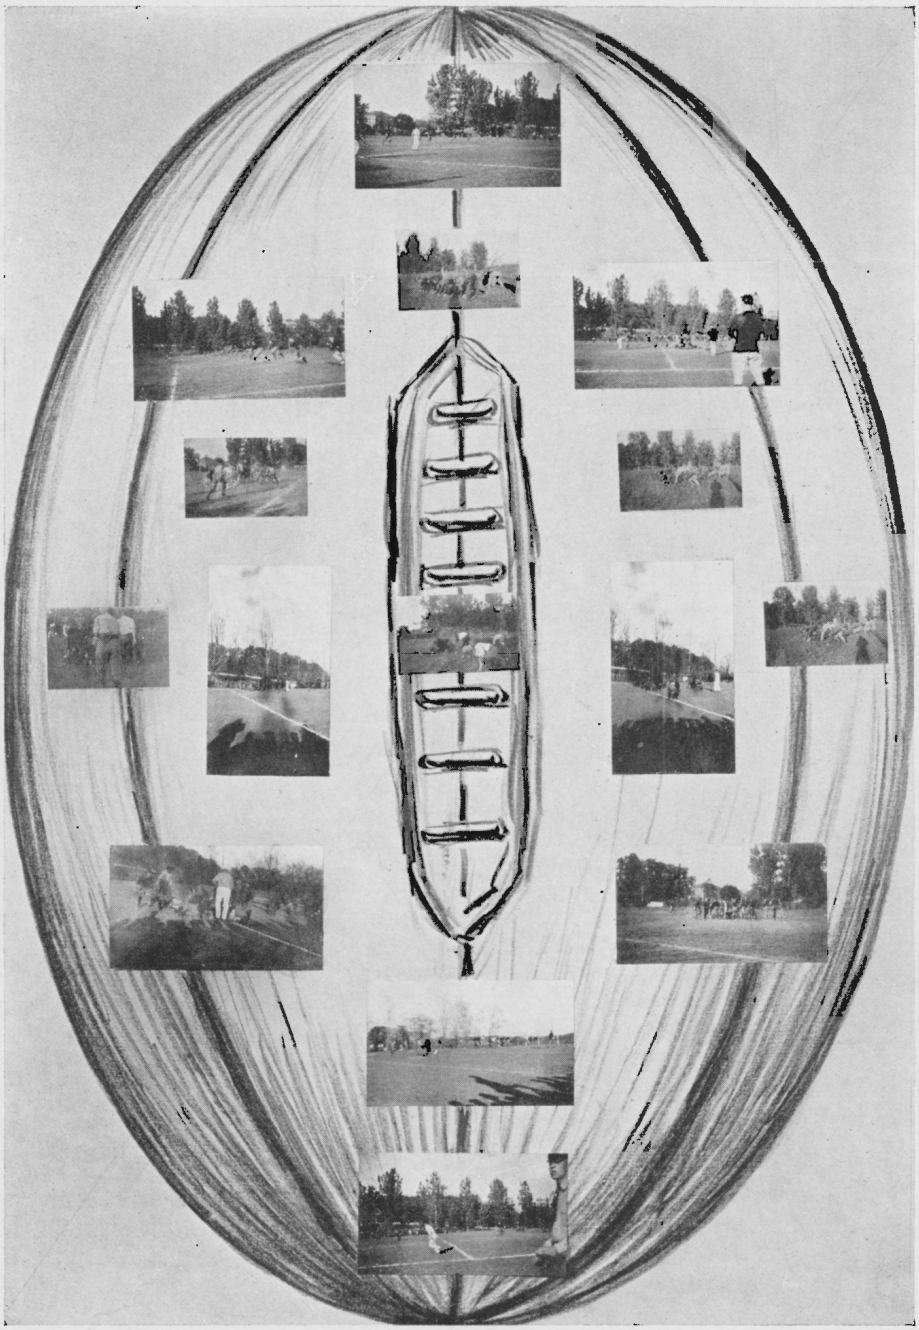

We heard these words when we passed through the Arch for the first time. We have carried through each year the ideals passed down to us by those who created the A. M. A. spirit. We have learned to put our school ahead of our own personal feelings—to think of IT first and last. What is it that binds so closely the alumni and the cadets? It is the same indomitable spirit towards their Alma Mater—OUR school.

We earnestly entreat you who return to take Augusta's helm in the days that are to come to keep inviolate those ancient precepts and traditions that foster the "Spirit of A. M. A."

Hard luck to our opponents,
They'll never score,
As through their lines
We will gain once more.
Down the field we'll hike it
For A. M. A.,
Then all together
We'll win to-day.

Football Team

Football Squad

Football

Out of a schedule of eight games Augusta emerged twice with victory and once with a tie. Surely that is not an enviable record if we are to judge from the number of games won.

But in reviewing the past football season it is not going to be the aim of the writer to offer any alibis for the defeats sustained. Augusta has lost in the past, and will continue to lose, from time to time, in the future.

But the writer does want to dwell on what he considers a growing tendency in the majority of preparatory schools to place victory above everything else. We are all agreed that victory is a most wonderful thing and the one thing well worth fighting for. But do we pause to consider that victory does not always rest with the team that scores the greatest number of points? Numerically it does; morally, not always; especially with boy athletes.

I say boy athletes because it is the boy who is being dealt with in preparatory schools and because the preparatory schoolboy is going to carry his early training into college and life. And just the way he was taught the fundamentals on his prep school team, so, too, will he put them into practice on the college team.

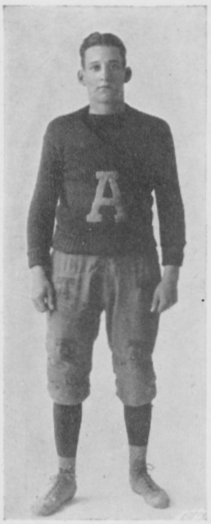

What a wonderful thing it is so to mold a boy's character that he can always play the game clean, taking no unfair advantage of his opponent, standing out at all times for the sportmanship that should dignify the game. Lacking these traits, no athlete can ever be victorious, regardless of how heavy the score may be in favor of his side.

Such is the idea of athletes at Augusta, and such was the spirit of the team of '20. Regardless of how many games we win or lose, we shall always exhort our teams to cherish these priceless heritages that have been handed down to us.

When Captain-elect Lewis called for candidates on the 22d of October, few believed that such a number would turn out as did. The opening practice found well over eighty men on the field, and not until the coaches decided that the squad would bear cutting did the number decrease. Four letter-men from the previous year's team had returned, and around this nucleus the team was to be built. And with what promising prospects did the team go into the Virginia Freshmen game!

For three quarters did we play them an even battle and against superior weight and age too, but in the dying stages of the game we had to see them take from us what promised to be a hard-earned tie and score a touchdown in the last ten seconds of the play. But the Virginia game only served to awaken the team to realization of an unknown strength, and the following week we trounced Massanutten Academy badly, 35 to 0. At this stage of a rapidly developing, successful season, the coaches found themselves confronted with the greatest of all obstacles—overconfidence among the players. Truly did it bear its fruit, when we played Woodberry in Charlottesville, our third game. During the entire half we had Woodberry on the defensive. On four different occasions Augusta had the ball within four yards of Woodberry's line and each time a fumble cost what seemed likely to result in a score. But during the second half the team seemed never to begin where it had left off, and Woodberry finally made us bow to a 13-to-0 defeat. Undaunted, the team felt that such a defeat might well serve to put them on their mettle for the following game, played with Roanoke College at Salem, Va. Here the outcome was little in doubt; for, aside from having one of the very best teams in her history, Roanoke had the advantage of weight and a wonderfully clever back field, and encountered little difficulty in beating us 42 to 0, although at all times did Roanoke find Augusta fighting.

With Roanoke out of the way, all was centered upon Episcopal High, whom the team was to meet at Alexandria the following Saturday. And such a game it was! Augusta received the kick-off and steadily began a march which soon placed them close to Episcopal's goal line. A forward pass was attempted and intercepted by Episcopal, which she soon converted into a touchdown. But undismayed, Augusta came back strong and was on the way to what seemed sure to result in a touchdown, when a costly fumble occurred, giving the ball to Episcopal. From her own fifty-yard line Episcopal worked the ball down to Augusta's forty-yard line, when her progress was checked. Here, Morton, the brilliant quarter-back of Episcopal, lifted the ball over the cross-bar for another three points. However, Augusta was still very much in the game, as was shown shortly after the fourth quarter began, when, by a series of line plunges, she worked the ball well within Episcopal's thirty-yard line, and Pillow, by some marvelous twisting and dodging, fought his way across the goal line for Augusta's first points. With Episcopal fighting to maintain her lead, and Augusta fighting to overcome it, the game developed into one of the hardest fought the writer has even seen. With thirty seconds of play remaining, Augusta recovered the ball on Episcopal's forty-yard line, and with almost certain defeat facing them, Bauman, of Augusta, kicked a beautiful field goal, thus tying the score and terminating a battle most stubbornly fought from beginning to end.

Playing Fishburne the following Saturday, Augusta, after the first five minutes of play, in which she scored a touchdown, never seemed able to find herself, and was forced to accept a 20-to-7 defeat; though it is doubtful if the better team won.

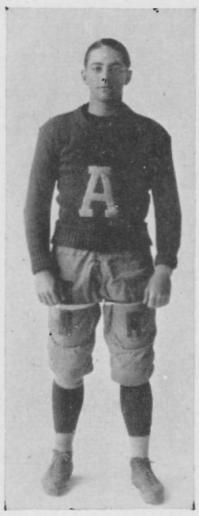

As was logically expected, Staunton defeated Augusta the following week, 49 to 0, though the one-sided score by no means is indicative of the fierceness of the game. But Staunton well deserved to win; she had a wonderful team and a still more wonderful player in McMahon, her captain.

On Thanksgiving, Shenandoah Valley Academy was met and defeated 7 to 6 in a game full of heart-rending thrills from beginning to end. No less than four times did Augusta work the ball to her opponents' goal line, only to lose it through some error of judgment in selecting the proper play or a fumble.

But fortune smiled on the Blue and White in the closing minutes of play, and the ever-watchful and persevering Lewis picked up a loose ball and ran thirty yards for a touchdown, after which Kellogg added the necessary point needed to win the game.

Not always is the best player the best leader, but in Lewis, C., at center, the team possessed a man who did have the rare combination of both. Always fighting, never losing a single minute of play from injuries, he was an inspiration that is seldom found among preparatory school athletes, and his playing at all times was brilliant.

At the guard positions both Nugent and McClanahan played steady, consistent football; and before the season ended both had developed into high-grade players.

In Taylor, C., the team possessed an exceptional tackle, one who never tired, a hard man to box, and usually the first man down under punts. Nor was Bernheim far behind him in ability, overcoming lack of weight with a decided amount of fight and endurance.

In Crichton, at left end, the team was possessor of a truly remarkable player, both offensively and defensively. As a defensive player his superior has rarely ever been seen in school circles, while he received forward passes with a skill and cunning of a baseball player handling a ball. Temple was a steady, hard-working player, who was at his best in the Staunton game, and who would have performed even more brilliantly than he did had not an unfortunate injury forced him to the side line.

Kellogg, at quarter, though inexperienced and light, was a man always in the game to his utmost, and, too, a good defensive man.

Pillow and Pack ably filled the two half-back positions, and they accounted for many of Augusta's gains throughout the season.

Steele was a really marvelous punter, and on many occasions he helped his team out of difficulties with his educated toe. This, coupled with his offensive ability, made him a dangerous man.

In Fontaine, Bramble, Johnson, T., Page, C., and Bauman the team was well fortified with substitutes. Fontaine, though a letter-man from the previous year's team and from whom much was expected, was forced to the side lines early in the season on account of an injured knee. Johnson, T., and Bramble need only more experience to make them valuable men, while in Page, C., and Bauman the team had two fighting half-backs. What with their zeal for work it was difficult to distinguish them from first-string men. Particularly was Bauman giving great promise of developing into an all-round star, when a painful injury to his thigh, which never seemed quite willing to heal, caused him finally to abandon the last three games of the schedule.

Only those who were closely connected with the daily practices can fully realize and appreciate what the value of a scrub team is, both physically and morally. To the scrubs the varsity and cadet corps look up with all the respect and admiration in the world; for it is the lot of the scrubs usually to give and never receive. But to the men themselves it must be wonderful to know that though something is lacking in make-up to permit them to become varsity men, nevertheless, they can try; and possibly nature will some day remove the obstacle and allow them to win the cherished goal, that of "making the big team." Hail to the scrubs of '20, and all the other scrub teams that have preceded them!

Basket-Ball

WITH three members of last year's team returning, Augusta's prospects on the basket-ball court were exceptionally promising.

The intervening weeks between Thanksgiving and Christmas produced material from which were gathered excellent running mates to our veterans of the preceding season. The time was spent in establishing the fundamentals necessary to a finished team.

A review of our schedule shows that ten of the fifteen contests were victories for the Blue and White. Our opponents from Staunton were victors in two hard-fought games. The V. M. I. Reserves deprived us of a victory, and the U. Va. Freshmen gave us two defeats. The Woodberry game will long be remembered by the spectators. Brilliant shooting, passing, and guarding were displayed by both teams, keeping the final outcome of the game forever in doubt. Two extra periods were necessary, our opponents winning in the last minute of play by a shot from mid-court. Woodberry had a wonderful team and deserved all the credit bestowed upon it.

Episcopal High School, Staunton, Y. M. C. A., Virginia Episcopal School, Massanutten Academy, and Shenandoah Valley Academy fell before us by decisive scores. Our first victory over Fishburne came after an extra period as the result of fast work by Bob Dunn and "Chuck" Lewis.

V. M. I. Reserves journeyed to Fort Defiance for a return battle and Augusta wiped out her defeat of the previous week. With thirty seconds to play, Harry Wisotzkey made a brilliant shot which gave us the game.

Carolina's Freshmen presented the best team we confronted the entire season. Clean cut, well coached, and excellent sportsmen, they played the game from start to finish. Augusta might well be proud of her victory over these opponents.

Entering the last game of the season, the entire team played in true form, and Fishburne fell under the small end of a double score.

In Lewis and Wisotzkey Augusta displayed a pair of forwards without peers in the State of Virginia. Both of these men were unanimously selected for places on the All-State team. Excellent passers and dribblers, they cover the floor completely, and follow the ball throughout every minute of play. Both players are accurate shots from any angle of the court, and opposing guards are kept very busy endeavoring to hold down scoring by these two.

Bob Dunn, though small for a center, developed into a good man, proving himself a valuable assistant to Lewis and Wisotzkey in working the ball into shooting position.

Standiford, while playing a guard position, was one of our highest point scorers. His dashes down the floor for two points were always assured four or five times a game. In the contest with the Carolina Freshmen, "Sarge" registered seven times in the second half, thereby turning the victory to our side. Standiford is a man of great experience, and will be a good asset to any team.

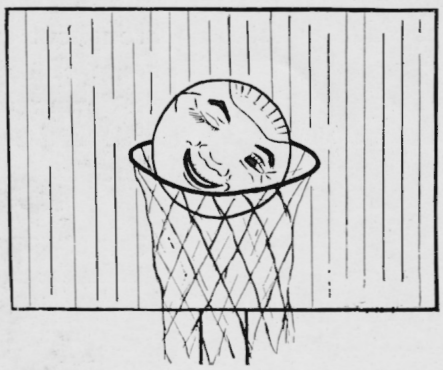

Scott Pack, our source of defense, took excellent care of the basket and forced his opponents to toil for every point that was registered to their credit.

Kennedy is a man of natural ability, and with this year's experience will be a valuable man for next season. He was able to substitute in any position and always handled himself in excellent form.

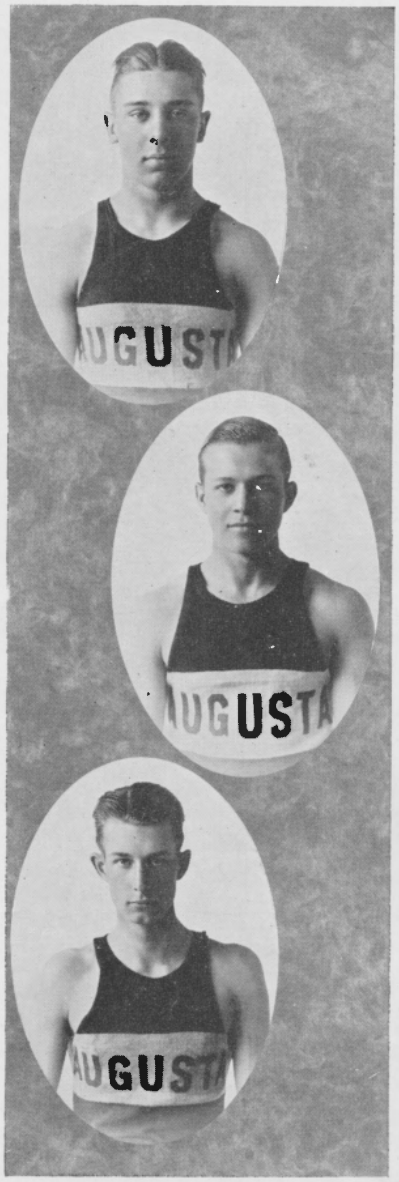

RECALL

Augusta is proud of this team and express sincere regret that every member will not return next year to aid in carrying the Blue and White to further victories. Too much credit cannot be given to a successful team. We always witness their victories and praise the excellent work that they put forth. We gaze on the finished product and thrill over their skill. Do we ever stop to reason how they attained this state of perfection? In our haste to give recognition, let us not forget those who are always on time, striving just as hard and receiving nothing but punishment in return.

I refer to the scrubs. Day after day they plugged along and when the games rolled around sat on the bench, anxious to get in the scrimmage, yet hoping that the team goes good. Willing to sacrifice everything that the varsity may be victorious. Should we neglect these gems of ours? Augusta cannot bestow too much praise on Charlie Brown, Turner Johnston, "Chick" Crawford, Bramble, Shuey, Greig, and others who have helped to develop this year's team.

RECALL

LEWIS, C., Captain

Chuck, our mainstay in defence for the last two years, never waits for the ball, but goes into the scrimmage after it. The coaches of the state realized his worth when they picked him to captain the All-State Team.

WISOTZKEY, H., Assistant Captain

Harry established a record last season which caused all opponents to say, "Watch Wisotzkey!" He certainly strengthened that opinion this year, as a glance at the score board will indicate.

DUNN

Hard-working, good-natured, and always in the game. Bob is one of the most unselfish on the floor; always passing to his team mates, rather than shoot himself.

STANDIFORD

"Sarge" is an excellent guard and the possessor of a shooting eye that is indispensable. Besides caging baskets himself he is always busy depriving the offensive forward of the same privilege.

PACK

Scott came back after a year's absence, and immediately shattered the hope of many aspirants for the vacant guard position. Needless to say, his work certainly fulfilled all expectations.

KENNEDY

If all the world turned against him, "Crook" would continue to smile. This is his first year, and much is expected of him next season.

Baseball Team

Baseball

BLESSED is the man who expects nothing, for he shall not be disappointed. Last year, at this time, we were more pleased than now, insofar as expecting great things from our baseball team was concerned. Then we were beginning a season with a squad of unknown quantities and the problem of building a team around three letter-men with new cadets, whose abilities were unknown, confronted us. The outlook was gloomy, to say the least. But the first call for candidates was responded to by some fifty-odd men, all brimming with enthusiasm, and imbued with that old Roller spirit; and by hard and constant work they shaped into a team that looked good beside the best preparatory schools in the country, won over 70 per cent of their games, and ended the season in a triple tie for the state championship.

This year the conditions are quite different. Out of last year's team there returned to school all but two, and, in addition to those, one of the team of 1918, thus giving us a working nucleus of eight men who have played for A. M. A. on winning teams. As far back as last fall the corps began to think of 1921's baseball team, and has been ready to speak of it as one that would surely give a good account of itself. Therefore, when the call for candidates was issued about February 20th those men who reported for the first practice at once shouldered a tremendous responsibility. The school and its supporters were looking for a team that A. M. A. cadets could boast of and on whom the alumni and friends of the school could look back in years to come with pride.

The announcement of first practice brought out on the Clay Bowl some forty candidates, and the men set to work with the grim determination that the expectations and hopes of those behind should not be shattered; that confidence should not have been misplaced; that they would reach the high goal set for them. As this is being written, the squad has been working untiringly for a month. They have met with reverses and setbacks that were not to be expected, but, undaunted by anything, they are going ahead to accomplish what they set out to accomplish; and with the same earnestness of purpose and enthusiasm that they are putting into their work, it would seem that no insuperable barrier could be put in their way and that their labors are certain to be abundantly rewarded.

Baseball Squad

Let it be said in passing that, after all, it is not merely physical baseball that makes a team. Real teams are made up of men that combine with their physical abilities honest work, unrelenting application, alertness of mind, a high moral, and an unconquerable spirit. The men who at this time seem likely to win prominent berths on the team are as follows:

Pitchers—Nugent and Phillips.

Big Sam Nugent needs no introduction to the majority of the RECALL'S readers. Last year Sam shouldered a lion's share of the mound duty and his performances were of high caliber. He has speed, curves, and control a-plenty; displays good judgment in using what he has and combines with it all a temperament peculiarly suitable for a pitcher. Off the mound, he is a source of great offensive strength, being a hard and constant hitter, fast and smart on bases. Sam is assistant captain of his team, and makes Captain Marrow a helpful right-hand man. Incidentally, it will be many a day before Sam's crash in the tenth inning at Kable's is forgotten.

Phillips, like Sam, is also a southpaw, and if a month's observation of his work tells anything, he is a worthy running mate for Nugent. "Minny" came to us from the "Tar Heel State," and had it not been for men in school that knew him, we should never have suspected that he was a slab artist, as "Minny" is a man of few words. However, he was not on the field long before all who saw him were convinced that he was a port sider that would be heard of. The work he has done so far has been most satisfactory, and everybody is convinced that no team will have a picnic at his expense, the assortment of antics that his offerings cut up being enigmas to batters. He, like Sam, is a "hitting pitcher" and has a habit of coming through in a pinch and chasing runners across the plate. We have no fear that our pitching department will not be taken care of.

Behind the bat is Pack. Two years Scott chased flies around in right field, and was good at it. Then "Bud" Christian was peeking through the iron cage, so Scott cast his lot with outer guardians and was a running mate of Vogel Diuguid and Mac McWhorter. Smith, last year's old reliable, having dropped out of school, Scott has donned the shin guard and mask and is making a worthy battery mate for the two lefties. He is a good receiver, a fair thrower, a heavy hitter, a hard worker, and with a little more experience at his new position will be having us think the halcyon days of "Uncle Bud" are returning.

Hulvey, a "rat," who hails from across the hill, is doing the work of first base. While young and without a great deal of experience, he is performing creditably at the initial sack, and bids fair to be a stellar first baseman before the season is well under way. Dwight stabs low ones, high and wide ones with ease, has a good arm and is always heart and soul in the game. He has considerable hitting propensities and pitchers who face him are in trouble. Though not a George Sisler, Dwight compares most favorably with the best prep school first sackers.

Charlie Moseley, who, with a spectacular play in the last game with Kable's in 1920, retired the last man in the ninth and enabled Roller's to make a thrilling tenth-inning finish, is back at school. And the keystone sack is being well looked after. Charlie is a fast, hard working, consistent player, covering a lot of ground; receives throws well, and is an all-round reliable baseman. While he does not pose as a flashy ball player, he has a habit of making these impossible plays at the psychological moment and more than once has pulled his team out of a hole by beautiful stops and throws. Charlie came in from the outfield in mid-season. He filled the place left vacant by an injury to Captain Deal, who was playing a great game at second. He kept his standard set by his predecessor, and we are looking for him to continue the good work.

In the shortfield Joe Hatchett is cavorting around like a "Rabbit" Maranville and grabbing 'em here, yonder, and everywhere. Joe is what might be appropriately called a wonderful shortstop. He is as fast as the wind, has a splendid arm, is a good hitter, an exceptional base runner, and is possessed of an unusual amount of baseball sense. No matter what may be the stage of the game, you can always depend on Joe to be in the thick of the play, full of pep and fighting with all his soul. He captains the infield, and the generalship that he displays, coupled with his playing abilities, makes him a most valuable asset. Many worse shortstops than Joe have been seen in colleges, and few better.

"Toad" Pillow gambols around the "hot corner" and need not doff his hat to the best of those that essay guardianship duties of the high temperature hassock. "Toad" is a player that is forever plugging away and a game is never over for him till the last man in the ninth is out. From slow rolling bunts to cannon ball daisy clippers, "Toad" handles them all with unconcern, and woe to the batsman who chances to pop in his territory. At the bat he wields a "wicked willow," and few games that "Toad" does not have an extra base hit or two chalked up to his credit. His big heart and genial disposition have endeared him to all his teammates, and his presence amongst the players, both on and off the field, helps tremendously to keep them in that happy frame of mind that enables them to get the maximum results from their efforts.

The left garden is presided over by Captain Marrow, who is now playing his third season with the varsity. In former years Tom has been a fast, rangy outfielder, and now he looks even better than before. If for nothing else that he has done on a ball field, Tom would always be remembered for a running one-hand made at Woodberry in 1919, which saved the game for us. That was his first year on the team, and ever since then he has been a mountain of defensive strength. Tom uses the bat effectively, and is a dangerous man with men on bases. The team thought highly enough of him to select him for their captain, and an excellent captain he is making. He takes great pride and interest in his team, of whom he is justly very proud; and under his leadership they do all of which they are capable.

Mechanical Ott is waltzing around in the middle field, his old camping ground. "Mech" was unfortunately taken with the mumps at the beginning of the season and has not gotten back to his old-time form, but it is safe to bet that it will not be long before he will be chasing flies in Tris Speaker style and pressing the home-run button quite frequently. Last year "Mech" had few peers in the field, and with the bludgeon he was a veritable demon. "Mech" has a great deal of natural ability and plays the game not alone for the love of it, but to win. He puts all he has into his work, and is never so far behind that discouragement overcomes him, not so far ahead that he becomes careless. Win or lose, "Mech" plods along, and a man with these qualities is invaluable.

In the right pasture, under the shade of the tall trees overlooking the verdant valley of sparkling Lilly Creek, is diminutive "Monk" Eller. This is the second year that "Monk" has stood sentry over that section, and it has been well guarded. Though small in stature, "Monk" fills a big hole on the team, as he is one of the fastest and wisest outfielders that you run across in preparatory schools. He is good at handling ground balls as well as shagging the sphere in its aerial course, has a good arm, and covers a vast amount of territory. At the bat and on bases "Monk" is a man always to be reckoned with by the opposition, thus adding considerable offensive strength to the team. "Monk" leaves for West Point in June, and we expect to see his name in the cadet line-up before long.

Space does not admit of a special mention of all names that might be put here, therefore only those who at present comprise the varsity have been spoken of. Below is a list of all members of the squad, several of whom are showing marked ability.

An article of this kind would be very incomplete with all remarks confined to the varsity team. There are two other organizations that deserve as much mention as the first team, but unfortunately never get it; they are the so-called scrubs and the corps. Were it not for the self-sacrifice of the scrubs and the loyal support of the corps, the team could not approach what it is. To them is due a vast deal of the credit that is, by the nature of things, bestowed upon the team that actually represents the school. Certainly the scrubs could not be more helpful or faithful, nor the corps more loyal than they are, and whatever success the team may meet with is attributable in a large measure to the sacrificing of the scrubs and the loyalty of the corps.

The Track Team

WHEN, on March 1st, Major Roller issued the call for candidates for track, over fifty men responded. At a meeting of the men of last year's track squad, Fontaine was elected to the responsible position of captain, with Taylor, C, as his assistant. Captain Fontaine began immediately to marshal his forces and to arrange his men in their respective places; for he intends that this year's team bring to Augusta the honors of the cinder path which it deserves, and that it shall live up to the reputation already established by victorious teams of former years.

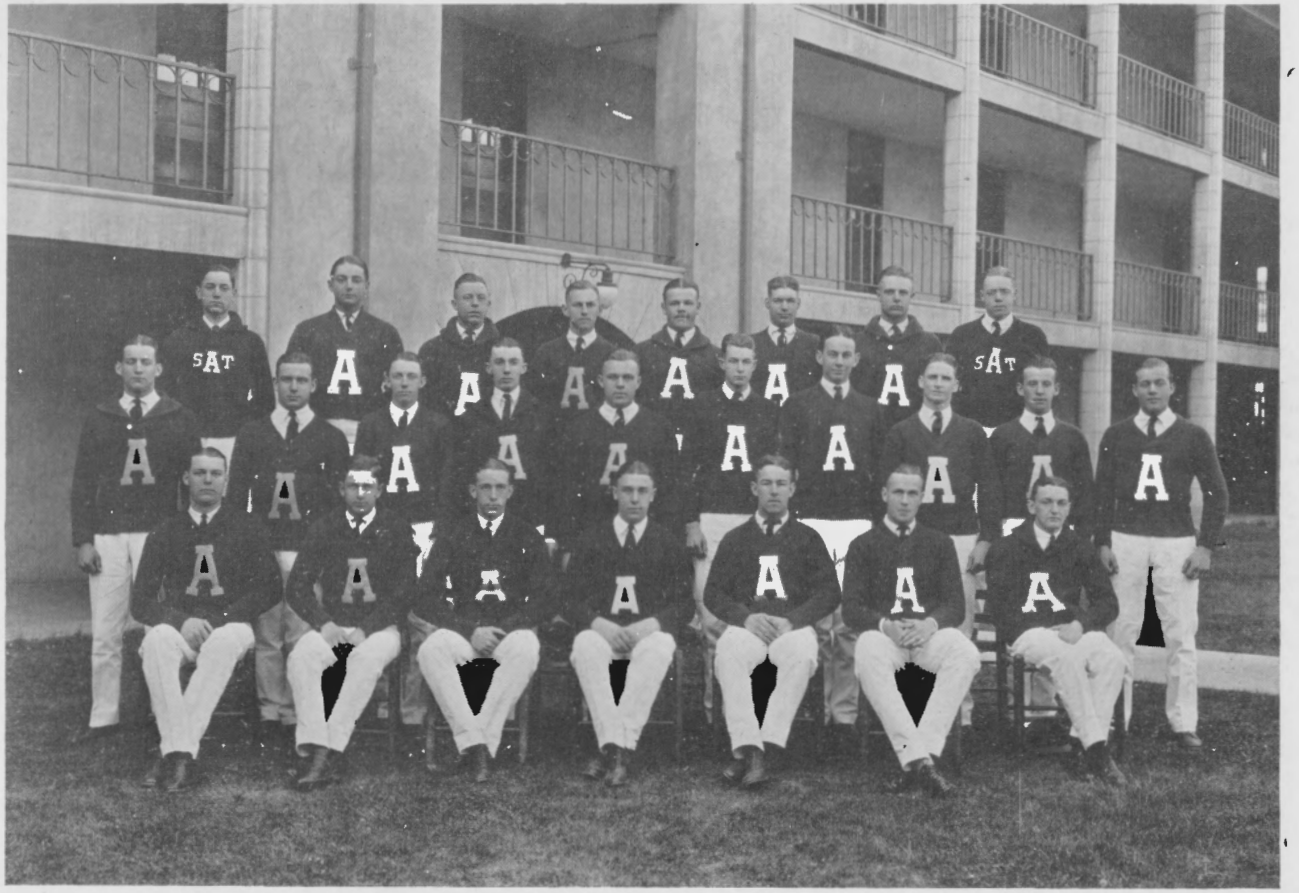

After a month of hard training and untiring effort on the part of all candidates, some wonderful prospects have been developed. Magie, J., more fleet of foot than ever, has made such slashing cuts in the time required for him to cover the hundred-yard course that he has put a feeling of ease in the hearts of all. Kellogg and Kelley, W., are showing up wonderfully in the two-twenty dash. Hogshire, E., a new man at Augusta this year, has developed unexpectedly into a fast sprinter. Fontaine and Kelley will do credit to the Blue and White in the four-forty dash. Kellogg and Taylor, C., the latter of whom was so successful in last year's meet, are in good form at hurling the javelin. Augusta is to be ably represented this year in the weights, pole vault, and discus throw by Fontaine, Taylor, C., Sanders, Bridger, and Gerow. Magie, J., Kelley, and Kellogg expect to carry away first place in the hurdles. Gerow, Fontaine, and Hogshire are showing good form in the high and running broad jumps. The half mile will probably be run by McPherson, Heistand, and Montague. McPherson and Heistand are both showing up well. Montague runs with the speed and facility of the thorough track veteran that he is. Heistand and Standiford intend to carry away first honors in the mile run. Although these men are for the most part rather inexperienced in the ways of the track, hard work and consistent training are sure to tell, and we are expecting our representatives to bring home the honors from many events.

As the RECALL goes to press before the track season actually begins, we can only prophesy and hope as to the results. However, the schedule has been arranged, and the first important meet will be held at Charlottesville, April 23, the triangular meet with Woodberry Forest and the Virginia Freshmen. On April 30th will be the dual meet at Staunton, and the entire squad intends to be in the best of condition by that time. On May 7th comes the sate meet at Charlotesville. Every man who represents A. M. A. is fully determined to do his utmost, not only to uphold the old and established traditions of his Alma Mater, but also to bring new honors to her name.

Major Roller has been untiring in his efforts to bring the team up to perfection, and to him will be due the credit of its success.

MEETS

December 11—Central High School of Washington, 52; A. M. A., 16.
February 24—Washington and Lee Freshmen, 34; A. M. A., 33.

Swimming, as a sport, came into prominence at Augusta last year and another star was added to her fast-growing athletic crown. This year's team has not failed to hold up the standards set last year. Even though Augusta was not the victor in either of the two meets staged we are justly proud of the showing she made.

A great deal of interest was shown in the sport from the first, as was evidenced by the number of men who answered the call for try-outs. Practices were held in the tank of the Staunton Y. M. C. A. about three times a week during the fall. It was no easy task to pick a team from the list of men out and each place on the team was won after a hard contest.

After about two weeks of training the first meet was held in the tank of the Staunton Y. M. C. A. on December 11th, with the Central High School of Washington, D. C. The boys from Washington showed a score of 52 to 16. For A. M. A., Eldon and Dwyer took first and second place, respectively, in the plunge. Tanner placed second in the back stroke and third in the 100. Magie, J., Harryman, McPherson, and Dearborn each took third place in an event. The springboard was not in good condition so the fancy dive was held for exhibition only.

On February 24th, a Dual Meet was staged with the Washington and Lee in the tank of the beautiful Washington and Lee Doremus Gymnasium. The meet was a bitterly contested one from the first but one of A. M. A.'s men was disqualified on a technicality in the final event, giving the meet to the Freshmen with a score of 34 points to A. M. A.'s 33. The meet began with an easy victory for A. M. A. Magie, J., and Dwyer took first place in the fifty-yard dash and plunge, respectively; Magie, J., also took second place in the fancy dive and swam on the relay. However, Harryman was second in both the back stroke and the 220. Linn annexed second place in the fifty and Eldon was second in the plunge. Tanner took third place in the back stroke and swam on the relay. Bowman was third in the breast and Marston was third in the 100.

Magie, J., was the largest point runner of the season, followed for a close by Harryman.

THAT the Y. M. C. A. has become a real Christian influence for good at Augusta is due—we might say almost entirely—to the splendid, nay, the glorious efforts of Captain Gilliam during the session of 1919-21. We should like to review in detail "Heine's" superb work with the Association, but lack of space forbids.

Captain Gilliam sailed for African missionary fields in September. In his absence this year we, in whose charge the "Y" was left, have tried to "carry on" in such manner as would please him. We have not equaled, much less improved upon, his accomplishments. We only hope that our poor labors have served to preserve the institution which he raised to so high a standard.

The year's program has consisted of weekly meetings on Sunday nights, well attended and frequently made most enjoyable by addresses of prominent speakers. At Christmas time Association funds were applied to several worthy charities throughout Virginia.

A delegation of two cadets attended the State Y. M. C. A. Convention held at Randolph-Macon College, Ashland, Virginia.

It is hoped that, following the example set last year, Augusta "Y" will be well represented at the Blue Ridge camp in June.

"LET'S be done with wiggle and wobble." This, the battle slogan of the Republicans charging to victory under Mr. Harding, was the death knell of the Democrats.

Death knell indeed! Worse than that! It knocked a flock of 'em speechless. If you don't believe this, just look at the Ciceronian Literary Society, which, incidentally, is composed largely of Democrats.

Following the G. O. P. landslide in November, the "majority" made noble efforts to "carry on," but all to no avail. Words that once poured forth in sonorous volume were drowned in a sea of humiliation; and the Republicans were too drunk with conquest to produce the needed vocal thunder, so the doors of ye society were banged shut with the advent of spring.

Those who have a hankering to hear debates on senseless subjects are cordially invited to attend the seventh period section of American Literature, wherein, any day, one Klein and the other Wisotzkey "put out" in abundance.

Cadet Orchestra

The school orchestra being an organization in which every cadet feels a deep interest, had a good many applicants. But Grumiaux, its leader, restricted the number to five. He sought quality and not quantity. In this he hit his mark, for by the second informal dance "Alex" had shaped his quintet into an orchestra of which any school might be proud.

Dail again took his seat at the drums, relieved occasionally by Gollner. From this quarter came the "pep" that added to the harmony of "Alex's" saxophone, Eldon's violin, Taylor's majestic touch of the ivory keys, and Mann's banjo chords, a combination well qualified to please the most exacting.

These boys have worked hard all year—and not in vain—for they have afforded the corps pleasure too great to be measured. All honor to them!

Social Life

SOCIAL LIFE! Comprehensive? We'll say so. It embraces everything unmilitary from the Opening Hop to visits during Quiet Hour. And what would we do without it? By all the limping gods of the calendar, it's our one salvation. True, the troubles, trials, and tribulations that beset us daily may be largely imaginary; however, they are made more easily bearable by the prospect of social diversions; particularly those evenings which, we think, come all too seldom, when, in an atmosphere made brilliant by haunting music, resplendent, laconic feminine attire, dazzling glances, bewitching "lines" (double meaning, old thing), we dance into oblivion for a few hours the cares and worries of cadet life.

Social activities during the session of 1920-21 have been uncommonly noteworthy. The Opening, Thanksgiving, Midwinter, and Easter Hops were events of much magnificence. These dances were well attended by countless attractive girls and numerous visiting alumni. The Midwinter Hop is especially memorable through the excellent musical program presented by a selected Meyer Davis orchestra with "Tommy" on the drums and Johnny O'Donnell "knockin' 'em cold" with saxophone and clarinet.

The season was also marked by the Minstrel Club's December show, a performance made uproarious largely at the expense of an innocent Faculty.

Now on the last lap of the school we await most impatiently that which brings all to a glorious, jazz-mad close—the Final Ball.

THE C. W.'s

The C. W's

THE cadet waiter system, conceived by Major Roller, was established during the session of 1919-20.

Designed to relieve a shortage of former negro help, this plan of permitting worthy cadets to work their way through school by serving in the mess hall has proved eminently satisfactory. It is a means of giving to ambitious boys an education which they could otherwise ill afford; it has brought to A. M. A. numerous splendid types of young American manhood.

Though quartered in a building apart from the main barracks, since they must observe different hours and rules than those applied to regular cadets, C. W.'s have essentially the same privileges as any other cadets. School activities of every nature are open to them. They are to be distinguished from their fellows in no degree. They are distinguished because each day they "quit themselves like men," working with their hands that their alert minds may gain that knowledge which is power.

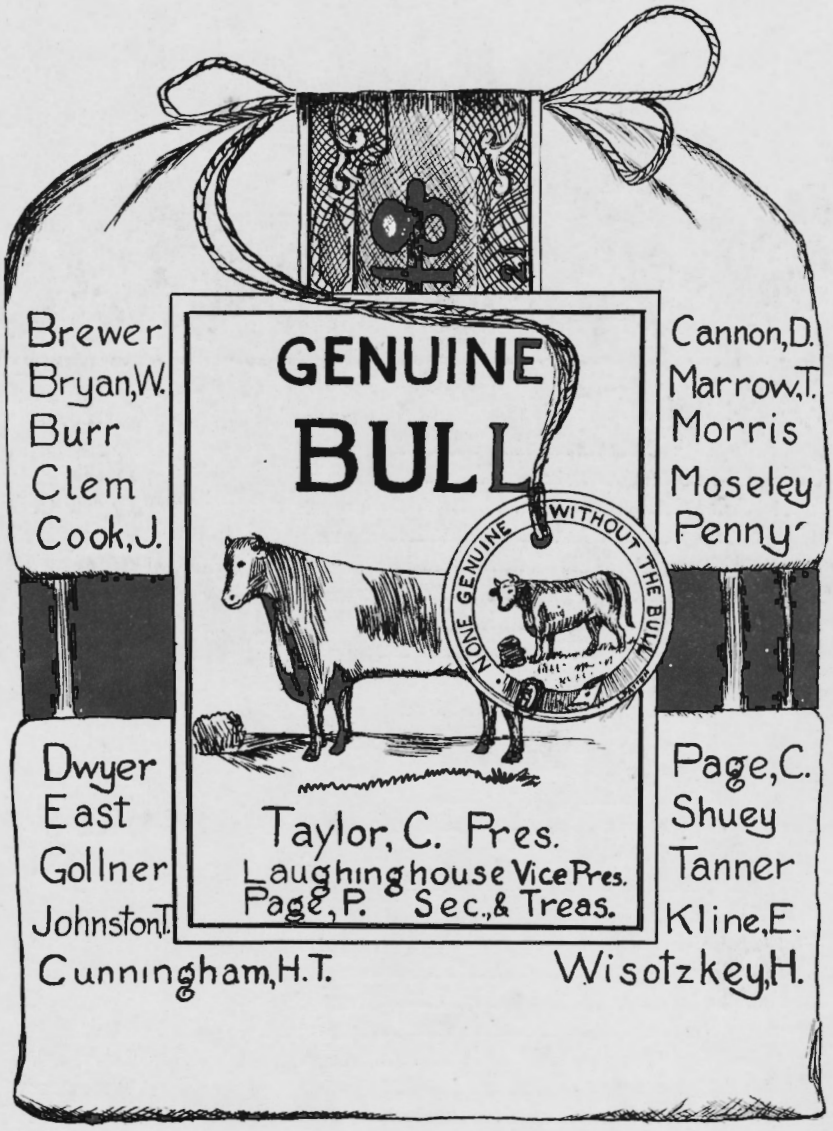

We of Augusta can boast no finer breed among us than the C. W.'s. May they prosper and be blessed through long and useful lives, ever developing that spirit of manliness and courage which characterizes them here.

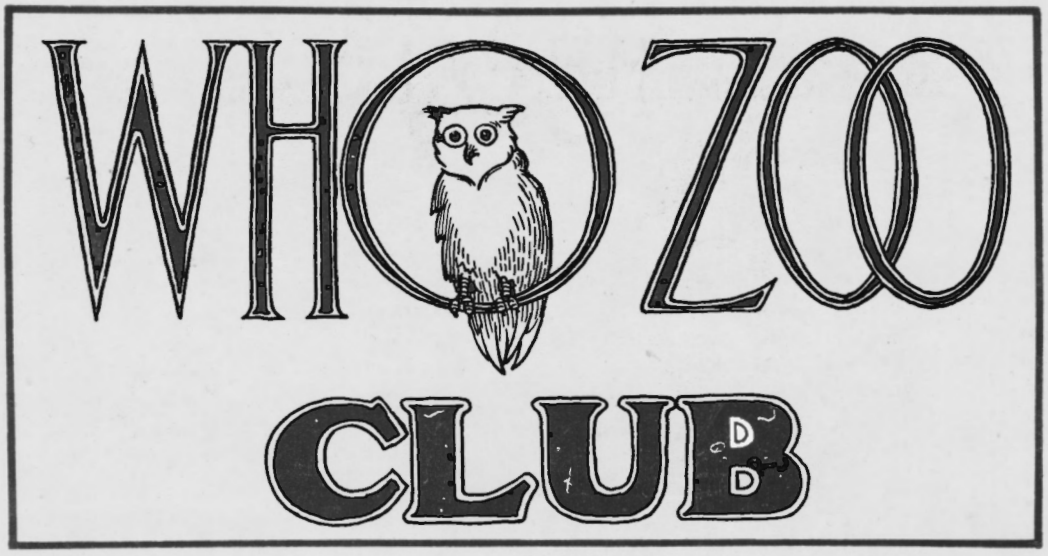

Hard Luck

We are not any worse than the rest of them, but we always seem to get caught.

Class Will

We, the graduates of Augusta Military Academy, in the year of our Lord 1921, being in a sound and disposing mind, do solemly make the following gifts, donations, requests, etc. Knowing our departure from this (Military) life is about to take place:

FIRST: To the succeeding graduates, our drags, offices, honors, fresh-air privileges for one month, and encouraging remarks from Colonel Roller.

SECOND: To our highly esteemed and venerable Faculty, our "Hop Queens." They are to be delivered in their shape and must be carefully preserved for future battalions. Special attention is to be paid to the limbs.

THIRD: To the Corps, we bequeath the remainder of our private and public belongings, with the exception of our diplomas, which in the future may be of use to us.

FOURTH: To Parker, L., we donate Wisotzkey's exuberance.

FIFTH: To Brockenbrough, we bequeath Fehr's brains.

SIXTH: To Langhorn, a little bit of everything.

SEVENTH: To Ott, Taylor, C.'s dancing ability.

EIGHTH: To Ireland, Mosely's baseball prowess.

NINTH: To Coiner, J., Klein's wit. It is to be developed and finishing touches added thereon.

TENTH: To "A" Company, we bequeath Page, C.'s "Line," provided they make good use of same.

ELEVENTH: To Fontaine, Cunningham's "Drag" at the Fort.

TWELFTH: To McClanahan, Penny's oratorical powers.

THIRTEENTH: To McCurdy, Hawks' "Vernon Castle" walk.

FOURTEENTH: East, Shuey's cause for worry.

FIFTEENTH: To Page, P., Hammond's innocence and kisses.

SIXTEENTH: To Crichton, Tanner's cowboy suit. (Trousers: knee length.)

Happenings that Didn't Happen to Happen

1920-21.

September 22—Major and Colonel Roller, Major Jacob, and Captain Yarbrough drive to the Fort and to Staunton, meeting all trains, so that returning cadets be not forced to hire taxis.

September 23—Officers are appointed. Smith, L., gets his lieutenancy.

October 1—Opening formal.

October 2—No school to-day on account of dance last night. Major and Colonel lend their cars to cadets having girls.

October 11—Cadets start practice on Lambert Field.

October 17—Cadets not wishing to go to church were allowed to sleep.

October 31—Hallowe'en party and ball. Girls from M. B. S., S. H., and H. N. S. in droves. A slight luncheon served at 1 o'clock.

November 6—Movies to-night. Mary Pickford, May Murray, Gloria Swanson, and Bebe Daniels the outstanding "stars."

November 19—Cunningham stars in the Kable game.

November 24—Cadets leave for home. School closes at 9 A. M. for Thanksgiving vacation.

November 31—Everybody returns on time.

December 1—Colonel and Major Roller give dansant to all members of the corps desiring to attend.

December 12—We leave for Xmas furlough.

January 13—We return. Everybody glad to get back.

January 14—No one gets below 95 in class work.

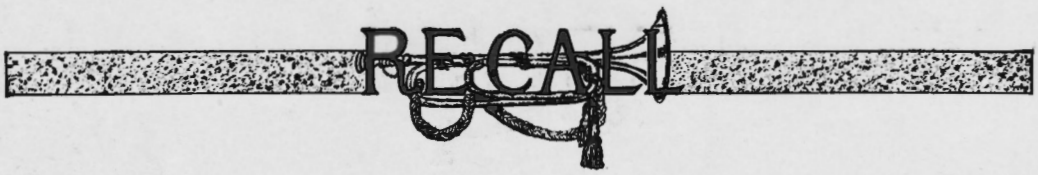

January 22—The graduating class entertains the corps with a pleasant afternoon tea. Several brilliant toasts made. Mr. Burr speaks in behalf of next year's graduates.

February 1—Mid-year exams are called off.

February 9—Major Jacob gets all his classes excused for the day.

February 22—Holiday and dance. Good old George!!

March 3—Government sends special train to take us to the Inauguration.

March 4—We are entertained at the White House, Martha Washington, and Chevy Chase. Page, C., and Lewis, C., have a bridal suit at the New Willard for the week-end.

March 7—We return from Washington with a new resolve to work harder than ever.

March 17—Crichton demands a holiday and gets one.

March 20—Nugent and Hatchett resolve never to go walking on Sunday nights.

March 28—Black receives his shipment from the Palm Olive Co.

April 8—Hammond falls at dance.

April 9—Hammond suffers from remorse.

April 15—RECALL goes to press. Don't believe anything in the rest of this calendar.

April 26—Bridger has his hair cut off.

May 3—Wash out on line in Colonel's back yard.

May 15—Finals begin. Everybody feeling blue.

May 18—Tears. Auld Lang Syne.

So long! Oo long!

Jokes

"You say Tanner doesn't have much of a line?"
"Naw! Why, he can't even string a racket."

Burr: "We have a new dishwasher in the Mess Hall."
Wisotzkey: "How so?"
Burr: "'Cause I notice the difference in finger prints on my plate."

Taylor, C.: "I wish to make a polite request to borrow a shirt. What should I say?"

Page, C.: "Well, you could start off in this manner, "I beg to enclose myself."

THREE MUSKETEERS

What ho! what manner of man is this
Who carries his all in a parenthesis?
Indeed, look close, now who can it be?
Why, it's Captain McDowell, of the Faculty.

And by his side, with lashes long,
A center of interest to the female throne,
His name? You guess it if you can?
That's right—Captain Groover, the Ideal Man.

God's gift to women
 Whom all men hate,
They're jealous of Sweet Dabney,
 Our little Playmate.

"Just think, Old Top, in Japan you can get a wife for fifty cents."
"Well," said Laughinghouse, " a good wife's worth it."

Major: "Laughinghouse, what is gas?"
Laughinghouse: "I don't know."
Major: "What is that head of yours for?"
Laughinghouse: "To keep my backbone from unraveling."

Greig: "Whence the black eye, Old Deah?"
Ottenberg: "Oh, I went to the dance the other night and was struck by the beauty of the place."

Marrow, T.: "Gee, but that's a low-neck dress Margaret has on."
Taylor, C.: "That's not the trouble; she's just in it too far."

Major Roller: "It's the little things in life that count."
Captain Gallagher: "Certainly, sir! You should hear Boykin and Siegel in my Arithmetic Class."

Kellogg: "Where you been?"
Fontaine: "Over in the grave yard."
Kellogg: "Anybody dead?"
Fontaine: "Yes, all but one."

Coleman, C.: "Looka here! I hear you've been sayin' that I haven't got sense enough to come in out of the rain."
Crichton: "There's a mistake somewhere, Buddie; I merely remarked that if there was a tax on brains the government would owe you money."

Eller: "Hey, Charlie, isn't there any hot water?"
Brown: "No, it's all gone."
Eller: "Well, have you got any talcum powder?"

Page, C.: "She's full of puppy love."
Lewis: "Puppy love? Hot Dog!"

Cadet (in Captain Bowen's class): "Captain, there are only two men at A. M. A. who know Spanish, you and Colonel."
Captain Bowen: "Why drag in Colonel?"

"I wonder why poor old Dale jumped in the river?"
"I think there was a woman at the bottom of it."

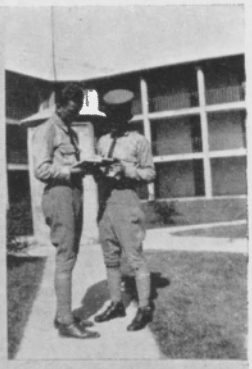

Shuey: "Won't you please kiss me good night?"
Mary: "What foolishness! Can you imagine me kissing you?"
Shuey: "I sure can."
Mary: "Then do it. Good night."

Hawkes (in post-office): "Max, back from your vacation, eh?"
Max: "Yes, back to the stamping grounds."

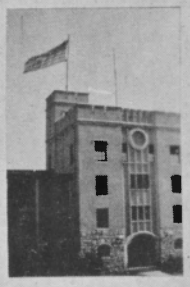

I'd surely hate to be a mouse,
His mind cannot be well—
The women lift their skirts, and then—
The fool—he runs like sixty.

Seeing Things

THE other night as I sat absorbed in thought, smoking my pipe before a cheery open fire, my thoughts wandered back to prep school days. Outside all was bleak and barren; the rain pattered upon the roof and the old north wind shivered around the corner, reminding me of many a winter night in the barracks of old Augusta. The fire died down to a mass of glowing embers, and in their midst visions began to take form.

I see the same old barracks covered with ivy, but the old mess hall is replaced by a new fire-proof building. There is also a new academic building and an infirmary; but these are not the only changes.

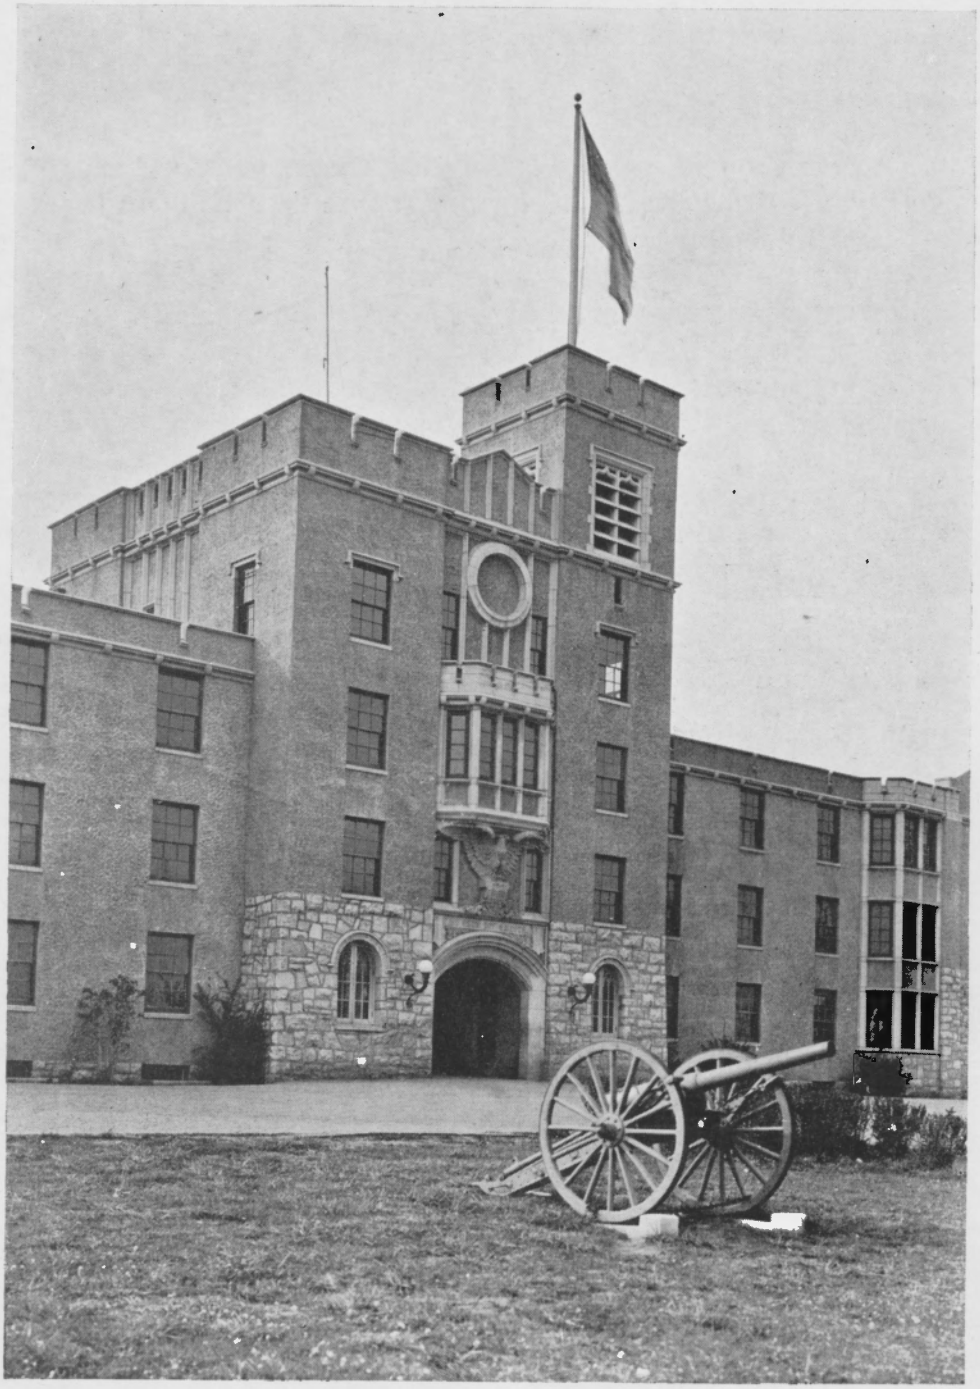

There are two unknown gentlemen—no, not unknown, only changed. The first of these gentlemen is not easily recognized, only—yes, I recall that gesture as he rubs his forehead and ruffles his hair, only to straighten it out again, using his fingers as a comb. Who is the second gentleman? "Officer of the Day, what are you holding first for? Let it go, right away." After first had gone: "Corporal of the Guard, have all my football men come up from the academic building! Sir, what did you say? Turn out that first will not go for ten minutes."

My thoughts passed from A. M. A. and its surroundings to my former classmates. "Jen" Cook is business manager of a large newspaper in Chicago. Since his reputation as a collector of all debts now goes before him, his debtors shrink from meeting him and his never-ceasing tongue. "Monk" Eller still has military on the brain, for he is no longer a shave-tail, but has reached the rank of a major. Cary Page is up to his old habits, and I understand he is one of the most successful "barkers" ever employed in the circus business. Harold Smith is a well-known consulting engineer. Charlie Tanner has turned out true to form and is now a large ranch owner in Minnesota. Harry Cuningham has been held from entering any business by much more important struggle which is being staged at Fort Defiance. If Harry is successful, he will have a partner to continue life with him. Bill Bryan is expected to receive a degree from Georgia Tech within the next year or so, while Frank Hammond is assisting Captain Gilliam to convert the heathen of Africa. Tom Marrow has lately perfected a new typewriter. Tom advises that this typewriter will greatly lessen the trouble of any stenographer. Charlie Brown, I understand, is also an inventor. He has perfected a self-endorsed straightener for bowed legs. "Slue" Taylor, twice married, is one of the controllers of Vicks Chemical Co., and in this way "Slue" is greatly aiding the cause of humanity by curing all aches, pains, and ailments. "Don" Cannon is proprietor of a Greek restaurant on Broadway. "Don" is his own setback, for he consumes himself a good portion of the food that would otherwise bring him profits. "Chuck" Lewis is a prominent speaker in the House of Representatives, having acquired the habit from his late roommate. Shuey is in the real estate business at Staunton. At college, Lucius Smith is debating whether he should leave college or take a post-graduate course. Harry Wisotzkey and Emmons Klein are editors of a magazine, which is fast taking the place of Uncle Billy's Whiz Bang. Fehr and Landis recently established a prep school. Now it is progressing rapidly. As a model for the Arrow Collar Co., Bob Dunn has firmly established himself and has quite a reputation. "Dutch" and Bob Brookover are interested in a large pretzel factory situated in Germantown, Pa. Marcus Dwyer lately acquired the habit of walking in his sleep and brain specialists agree that this is caused from habits thrust on him while a boy. Max Guggenheimer is now supporting himself by means of a pawn shop. Max has a business head and it is rumored that he will be voted the president of the Pawn Dealers' Association of Virginia. Gerow is fast mounting among the ranks as a basso. Jack Leterman is still interested in wireless. Jack has made several important discoveries in the way of wireless perfection. Moseley is a street-car conductor in Richmond. From the latest reports "Al" Penny has endangered his delicate constitution by joining the Raleigh Police Force. Allan will, no doubt, make a success at this venture, as his prisoners are bound to concede points for his arguments.

My dream is over, the spell is broken. I still hear the wind whistling around the corners. The fire is nothing but a mass of glowing embers. I must now retire to dream again of Augusta.

FINALS

Finals

WE come to the end of a perfect year!

There are some grouches, vindictive souls in our midst who will take issue with this statement. In the broad sense, though, it's true, don't you think? Surely most of us find during commencement days such joy and relaxation as suffice to obliterate every unpleasant memory of the year behind us.

Somehow there's a peculiar charm about the atmosphere of those last days that seems to heal, and render us forgetful of, all hurts, whether to body or heart or pride, received in the dreary months of barracks life.

Finals! A word the significance of which cannot be made entirely clear. Its meaning takes shape deep in the heart and there breeds an infinite happiness. Then all is over and we are chiefly concerned—the majority of us are anyway—only with the prospect of a long, lazy, detectable summer at home or elsewhere, several months to be unmarred by the jarring notes of the bugle or quotations from I. D. R., days of freedom and sleep and those morsels for which our appetites have impatiently craved. Finals, of course, isn't one grand round of pleasure. To be sure, there will be numerous drills in the broiling sun, and other proverbial burdens that must be borne cheerfully ere the more likeable features can be enjoyed. For instance, we must endure an afternoon of mimic warfare. That means rifles to be cleaned. On the other hand, ample time is allowed in which to mingle with fathers, mothers, sisters, brothers, uncles, aunts, sweethearts, and substitutes. So, after all, classes being history, we all have abundant cause for happiness, even those of us who "busted."

All this happiness, though, is not devoid of a certain measure of sorrow. Many of us are bidding farewell to Augusta, some to return eventually for a glimpse of the place we loved, to tread again ground hallowed by priceless memories. Some will go forth into the world and be swallowed up in the maelstrom of humanity, never more to lay eyes on these ivy-covered barracks that have been our shelter for so many months.

Let us then, remembering the sapphire glory of the Blue Ridge, the courtyard white and silent beneath the moon, the things for which we were taught to stand, the friends we made, so live that we may ever say, in reverence and thankfulness, "I was once a cadet at Augusta."

The Final Ball

OF the countless things that render Finals a momentous occasion there is one feature which we all seem to anticipate with keenest enthusiasm. What is it you ask? Sure, and 'tis the Final Ball, me lad. Indeed, it's the crowning honor paid to Terpsichore. The other dances, formal and informal, that marked the social season are remembered pleasantly enough; but this party—well, love is rampant, dreams almost come true, the evening is all that cosmetics, brief yet scintillating conceptions of the modiste's art, light hearts and jazz-infested feet can make it. The hours glide by on gilded wings, and our happiness is all too short lived.

Particularly earnest efforts are being put forth to make the Final Ball of 1921 the most resplendent and enjoyable in the history of Augusta. The opening figure, to be directed by the skillful hand of Captain Sullivan, will present in general an Oriental effect. Miss Goodall, leader, with Cadet Captain Page, will be seated, as queen, on a throne, attended on the right by Colonel and Mrs. Roller, on the left by Major and Mrs. Roller.

Decorations are to be in a color scheme of blue and white, offset by pink and dark red. Dance cards will be of leather in an attractive design. The way to the hearts of men and women being substantially the same, supper will be served in the Study Hall about mid-night. It is hoped that Meyer Davis can be engaged to furnish the music.

The Monogram Club Dance

THANKS to the courtesy of Major Roller and the Monogram Club, a novel and attractive feature will be injected into this year's Finals. On Tuesday morning, May 31st, the Monogram Squad will be hosts at a dance to which the entire corps are invited.

A very pretty figure, composed of the twenty-six monogram men and their partners, will be led by Cadet Lieutenant Lewis, with Miss Hilda Schneider, assisted by Cadet Captain Page, with Miss Eugenia Goodall. Cadets in the figure will wear white shirts, duck trousers, black ties, and blue monogram sweaters.

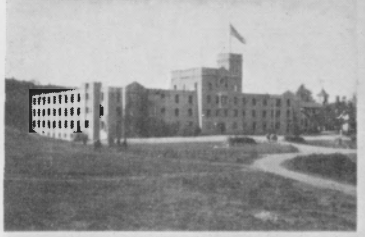

Favors will be distributed to those in the figure; cards to all attending the dance.

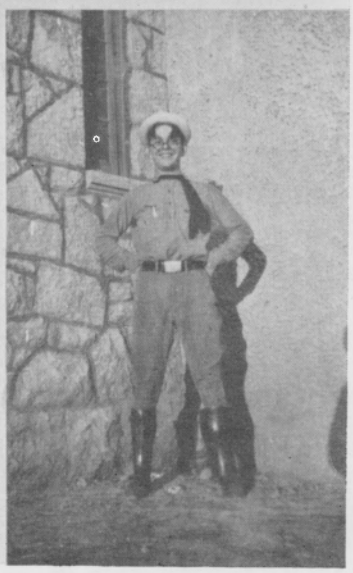

Music is to be furnished by the Zu Zu Orchestra, of Staunton, Va.

Calendar, 1920-21

September:

22—School opens. More grass on Clay Bowl than usual.
23—Old and new faces. Wild stories of the summer heard from all quarters.
24—Classes being organized. First football practice. Large squad of new and promising material.
26—Captain Gilliam makes farewell address and offers scholarship. Lots of applicants!
27—Classes begin to-day. Periods seem hours long.

October:

2—First Informal. Music by "A. M. A. Syncopated Five." Various attempts to drive away those "Homesickness Blues."
9—Virginia First Year Team beat us to-day 7 to 0. The only touchdown made in the last thirty seconds of play. The corps very enthusiastic over the playing of the team.
15—Opening dances begin to-night. Plenty of "Calic." Wahlen's Orchestra.
23—Team goes to Charlottesville. Loses to Woodberry, 14 to 0.
25—We hear rumors of appointment of officers, but they seem to be rumors only. Tanner says he will be glad when they come out.

November:

5—Officers appointed. Larger hats ordered for a number of cadets.
8—Dates for Thanksgiving Hops announced and bids sent out.
11—Armistice Day and no holiday. "Ain't it a cruel world?"
19—Corps goes to Staunton for the Kable game. 49 to 0 in their favor—*???!!???$$$$$$×××&&.
20—First basket-ball practice. Three letter-men of last year and promising new material.
25—A. M. A., 7; S. V. A., 6. Good game. Banquet given in honor of football team. World of eats.

December:

1—Everybody wearing a smile. Colonel brings his time-table to school. We leave on the 17th.
3—Thanksgiving Hop. Wonderful dance, more wonderful music, most wonderful girls.
7—Gold football awarded Chuck Lewis. Congratulations, Chuck.
12—Minstrel show. Enjoyed by corps and a good many Stauntonians. Informal after show.
16—Only 15 hours, 56 minutes till we start for home.
17—We leave!! Enough said.

January:

6—Well—it's all over now. We have only five months.
7—Lots of stories of that "only girl" met during Christmas. Black won the Triangle Kissing Contest.
10—First basket-ball game. A. M. A., 31; Staunton Y. M. C. A., 13.
12—Colonel starts warnings for exams.
15—Team defeats Episcopal High School in Lynchburg, 33 to 17.
18—Mumps getting very popular. Swell disease.
22—Team loses hard-fought and interesting game to Woodberry, 27 to 25.
25—The thermometer dropping steadily. Blankets are treated as long-lost brothers.
26—Mid-night oil burning regularly.

February:

1—Exams begin. Dame Gloom spreads her cloak over us.
6—The crises is over. Question: "Did we pass?"
11—Mid-winter Hop. Girls, girls everywhere! Meyer Davis furnishes music.
18—Monogram Squad organized.
22—No holiday. "Better late than never."
25—We lose to Kables, 27-22.
26—Movies as usual.
27—A. M. A., 43; S. V. A., 33.

March:

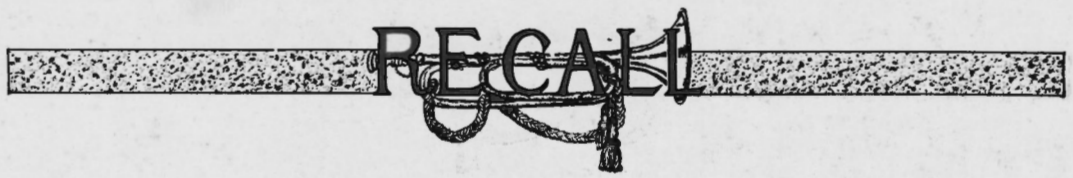

2—A. M. A., 33; F. M. S., 29.
3—A. M. A., 22; S. M. A., 27. Hard but fair!
5—A. M. A., 43; F. M. S., 27. Enjoyable informal hop after the game.
7—Baseball practice begins. Promising material among large squad.
15—Nothing unusual happening. School as usual.
22—Team showed up well in practice. Game with Weyer's Cave.
25—First real holiday since Thanksgiving. No "rev"! All permits approved. Why doesn't Good Friday come more than once a year?
26—First real game on schedule. A. M. A., 7; Mt. St. Joseph, 6. Captain Groover leaves us for the army. Best of luck, Capt.
27—Major Roller gives us a wonderful chicken dinner. Miss "Mc" says the infirmary will be full to-morrow.
30—A. M. A., 13; Central High, 9.
31—Gypsy Smith gives the corps the most helpful talk of the year. He leaves us a lot to think about.

April:

1—Major Roller "April fools" us by excusing us from drill.
8—Easter Hops begin to-night. Very little "academic" being done among the "jazz babies."
9—Dance last night. Thoroughly enjoyed. Whalen's Orchestra was at its best. Informal to-night. A. M. A., 9; S. C. I., 6.
10—Captain Smith takes a snooze in church. His snores were rivalled only by the moaning of the winds.
12—Colonel says we may be here until the 8th or 9th of June. "Ain't he the cheerful pessimist?" Captain Fleming "put his foot in it."
14—A. M. A., 10; U. V. First Year Team, 4.
15—RECALL goes to press to-day.
25—First dress parade in white ducks.

May:

3—We play Fishburne here to-day.
8—Founder's Day holiday.

9—Reviews begin for exams. Mid-night oil once more becomes a favorite fuel.

11—Game with Kable's. Corps has a lot of "pep." Fine game.

14—Massanutten expected to meet defeat.

16—Final game with Kable's. Our chances for victory are fine.

22—Exams begin. Long faces are once more in evidence.

27—The battle is either won or lost. Many of us lose all hope.

29—Baccalaureate sermon. Final Y. M. C. A.

30—Morning parade. Sham battle. Dress parade. Final Ciceronian Literary Society.

31—Butts manual. Monogram figure. Competitive drill. Dress parade, and, best of all, the Final Ball.

June:

1—Final exercises, diplomas. Distinctions and medals awarded by Colonel Roller. Cook, J., makes valedictory address. Among tears and fond farewells, "dismissed" is murmured by the sponsors.

To Contributors

To those whose names appear below the editors wish to make acknowledgements of boundless gratitude for numerous contributions in art, prose, and otherwise. Certainly we are placed under immeasurable obligation by their readily granted assistance, lacking which this book might never have been. Such praise as the volume may win will belong in no small degree to them.

Of special merit is the "Finals" poster in colors, the splendid work of Miss Mary Braxton, of Staunton, Virginia.

Deserving of particular mention are the efforts of Cadets Key and Patten. To the latter, a boy still under fifteen years of age, are attributable the cover design and the majority of drawings in the annual, including, amongst others, those for athletics, organizations, "Bull," and R. O. T. C.

The halftones, made from photographs, taken by Walter, of Staunton, will, we are confident, prove equal if not superior to any which may be seen in American school publications.

To cadets who secured ads or lent other aid we render due thanks.

Lastly, we again find ourselves uncommonly grateful to our publishers, the J. P. Bell Co., of Lynchburg, Virginia, which organization, through its representatives, Messrs. J. M. Andrews and O. W. Johnson, ever welcomes its patrons with courtesy, advice, and hospitality beyond compare.

The Fable of the Silk Hosiery

Once upon a time there was a merchant who dealt, amongst other articles, in enchanting hose of silken texture.

One fine romantic morning in spring a young girl, bewitching and alluring of face, figure, and "otherwise," was seen to enter this merchant's store. She had a hole in the heel of her stocking. How shocking! Following in hot haste upon that heel came a youth arrayed in tortoise-shell (?) glasses and the gray uniform of a military school situated near-by the town in which the merchant's place of business was located. Warily approaching the proprietor, the youth informed him that the school was publishing an annual, and would greatly appreciate the merchant's giving an advertisement as a means of assisting in the publication of the book. The charitable merchant readily assented.

And so with other tradesmen, in the town and elsewhere, who thus made possible the creation of the volume in question.

Whereupon it becomes the cadets of the school to bespeak infinite gratitude to those who so willingly accorded financial aid, and to patronize them liberally whenever opportunity permits.

Quality
IN setting the type, printing, and binding this book, our object was not to see how quickly and cheaply we could produce the publication, but how well it could be done.
Our whole aim in this, as in all our work, is to give the greatest attention to all the details, and produce printing that will be a credit to the institutions from which the publications are issued. Our books will be just as good in the many years to come, when an annual is of greatest value, as they are to-day.
